so it reaches us by 5pm, 31 January 2007. We will confirm receipt of your entry once we have received the signed application form with original + 4 copies of your essay.

Terms and Conditions:

1. Entries must be in the form of a written essay, must be submitted as specified on the Application Form and must be received by 5pm 31 January 2007.
2. Essays must be no shorter than 500 words and no longer than 1500 words.
3. Incomplete, illegible or incomprehensible entries will be deemed invalid.
4. Only one entry per person is permitted.
5. The essay must be in English.
6. Articles referring to or using the work of other writers or sources must include footnotes and a bibliography of sources as appropriate.
7. You confirm that your essay is original and your own work. You confirm that it will not infringe the rights of any third party.
8. By submitting your essay to the Black Dog Institute, you assign the copyright in your essay to the Institute. You agree that your entry may be used by the Black Dog Institute for promotion, education, teaching and research purposes. You agree that your essay may be published in whole or in part, including extracts and quotations. You agree that in using or publishing your essay the Black Dog Institute does not have to attribute you as author of the essay and may edit and/or alter your essay.
9. You agree that no fee will be payable to you for the assignment of your essay to the Institute and the Institute's use of your essay.
10. If your essay identifies other persons, or could do so to a reader of all or part of the essay, you will obtain the permission of those other persons to the submission of your entry and their agreement to the use and publication of your essay by the Institute. You will provide us with written evidence of this permission if we require you to do so.
11. This is a competition of knowledge and writing skills. Chance plays no part in determining the winner. Each entry will be individually judged based on merit. The judges' decision is final and no correspondence will be entered into. Unsuccessful entries will not be returned.
12. There are three prizes to be won. First prize is $2000, second prize is $1000 and third prize is $500. The winners will be notified by mail or phone, using the contact details provided on the Application Form.
13. The Black Dog Institute is not liable for any costs associated with entering the Competition.
14. The Black Dog Institute will not be liable for any loss or damage whatsoever which is suffered (including but not limited to indirect or consequential loss), or personal injury which is suffered or sustained as a result of taking part in this promotion, except for any liability which cannot be excluded by law.
15. The Black Dog Institute accepts no responsibility for late, lost or misdirected entries.
16. The governing law and jurisdiction of the competition is New South Wales, Australia.

Privacy Notice

Personal information collected from you in connection with this competition is limited to the items on this application form and whatever personal information about yourself or other persons that you choose to provide in your entry essay. If your essay identifies other persons, or could reasonably do so to a reader of your essay, you have obtained the agreement of those persons to the inclusion of their personal information in your essay before submitting your entry to the black Dog Institute.

Personal information obtained from you via the application form will be used solely for the purposes of running the competition.

Personal information about yourself or other persons that you have included in your essay may be used by the Institute for further education, research, teaching and promotional purposes and may be published.

The names of winners and any award recipients and their home State or Territory, will be published on the Black Dog Institute's website and in other promotional material. Subject to any editing deemed necessary by the Institute, we will also place the essay on our website and in other promotional material.

If the author has advised the Institute on their application form that they do not want their name published, the author's name will not be published by the Institute.

The Institute reserves the right, at its discretion, not to include the author's name and/or personal information about a third person if the Institute believes that the inclusion of this identifying information is not appropriate.
