

Philip Mitchell, AM. MB BS, MD, FRCPsych, FRANZCP

Present:

- Professor, School of Psychiatry, University of New South Wales 1999-present
- Head, School of Psychiatry, UNSW, 2002-present
- Fellow, Royal Australian and New Zealand College of Psychiatrists
- Fellow, Royal College of Psychiatrists (UK)
- Consultant with the Mood Disorders Unit since 1985
- Formerly Mood Disorders Unit Administrative Director, 1992-2002
- Director, Mood Disorders Unit Bipolar Disorder Clinic, 2000-present
- Member NSW Mental Health Implementation Task Force
- On the editorial boards of a number of journals
- Honorary Senior Principal Research Fellow, Garvan Medical Research Institute
- Collaborative research into the molecular genetics of bipolar disorder with the Garvan Medical Research Institute has resulted in three patent applications
- Frequently involved in community speaking engagements for groups such as Rotary and the Depression and Mood Disorders Association.

Principal areas of expertise:

- Treatment and outcome of bipolar disorder
- Genetic basis for bipolar disorder
- Clinical characteristics and epidemiology of bipolar disorder
- Treatment resistant depression
- Investigation of the effectiveness of Transcranial Magnetic Stimulation.